Estonia communication tower foundation

The tower, clearly visible from the city and from the sea, dominates the surrounding landscape and affects the local architecture. The structure of the tower can be divided into three sections: the ...

It was constructed between 1975-1980 as a part of a large building programme for the Moscow Olympic Games sailing regatta held in Tallinn. A decade later the TV Tower became a symbol of Estonia"s ...

The Tallinn TV Tower is a building constructed for broadcasting television programs, owned and operated by the telecommunications service provider AS Levira. In September 2009, AS Levira ...

The Tallinn TV Tower Foundation (SA Tallinna Teletorn) is set to launch exhibitions, programs and events at the future Meediatower (Media Tower) that will bridge Estonia"s media ...

Book now and experience the Tallinn TV Tower, where heights and excitement merge to create unforgettable memories!

Levira owns the highest transmitter towers backed by the most reliable power supplies in Estonia, offering an excellent base for the countrywide carrier grade services. We also have long-term ...

The Tallinn TV Tower plays a vital role in broadcasting television and radio signals, contributing to Estonia"s communication infrastructure. For the most current and precise technical ...

The tower has three parts to it: the foundation, the 190-metre-high reinforced concrete trunk and the 124-metre-high steel antenna. Between 150 and 182 metres, the tower is girded by a structure 38 metres ...

Tallinn TV Tower was built in 1980 for the Summer Olympics in Moscow, and on 20 August 1991 it became one of the most important symbols of the restoration of Estonian independence, when ...

Originally built to provide better communications for the 1980 Moscow Olympics, the TV Tower is a fascinating example of Soviet delusions of grandeur. Famously, this huge structure is the site where, ...

Estonia communication tower foundation

Web: https://inalaaccelerator.co.za