

Dimensional storage is the ability to store matter out of this dimension by shunting it into another dimension and retrieve it at will. Chimera Shoot McMahon can store small objects by transforming them into a symbol on ...

With his Infinite Dimension Space Coat, Kim Dokja (The Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint) can store items in a pocket dimension.

Each individual hand can lift over 1,000 pounds and can apply the same amount of force, the hand is larger than a human head. The primary function for these hands is that they are gateways to a storage ...

The user has an unlimited storage capacity and can store absolutely anything as well as manipulate everything that has something to do with storing, imprisoning, binding, sealing, etc. users of this power can store ...

Personal Storage Felix (Felix the Cat) has complete mastery and control over his magic bag, allowing him to store or retrieve anything from within it as well as utilize it properties for countless other feats even being able ...

Powers related to storage/containment.

Dimensional Storage (also known as Hammerspace or Magic Satchel) is the power to store an unlimited number of items in a "storage area" with no concern for running out of space. Users can then summon these items ...

Power/Ability to: Have compartments in one's body. The power to have compartments in one's body that can store weapons and objects. Sub-power of Body Manipulation.

The power to store anything in a fold of dimension/space and re-materialize at will. There are 950 characters with Dimension Storage. Yu-Gi-Oh!

Speed Storage Mistborns (Mistborn) can use Allomantic Steel to store speed for later use.

Web: <https://inalaaccelerator.co.za>